

Eagles Renovation Project: From Ruin to Re-Imagination

On display September 26 - November 1

Sponsored by Richard Tucker in memory of Cheryl Jackson

In 2017, The Honeywell Foundation began its renovation journey on the 114-year-old Eagles Theatre. This endeavor included a five-story renovated arts and entertainment facility that would combine the protected integrity and history of the building with modern amenities. This exhibit displays the side-by-side views of before and after the renovation; from the exterior and gloomy basement to the once-again-grand Parkview ballroom and retrofitted Ferguson Theatre.

These images show the massive undertaking of renovating this historic property. Updating the original Eagles Theatre combined nostalgia with modern upgrades and amenities including state-of-the-art audio and visual components, specially installed stage rigging system, 49-seat Ferguson Theatre on the lower level, balcony-level suites, and more.

The careful craft and selection of designing the new, state-of-the-art marquee incorporates the spirit of the marquees that Eagles has featured over its history. Complete with digital boards and lighted blade atop the marquee, the iconic feature once again brightens downtown Wabash.

The Parkview Ballroom was the most extensive undertaking of the renovation. As one of the original rooms of the 1906 construction, the elegant event space was carefully restored to its former glory with hand-painted ceilings painted in the Michelangelo style. The final product is a large painting and a salute to its original grandeur through the interpretation of the team of local artists who worked on the ballroom.

Additional floors were renovated to include several conference rooms, music practice rooms, and media arts classrooms where students can learn audio/video production and editing, all culminated into one project that will be enjoyed by many for years to come.

The newly renovated Eagles Theatre is available to host a variety of events. Rooms include classroom-style accommodations, the beautiful Parkview Ballroom, and of course the Eagles and Ferguson Theatres.
